Ed Dudley Totals 295 and Carries Off Phila. Open Golf Championship

CONCORD GOLFER WINS $350 PURSE BY STROKE FROM FIELD

Geo. Smith, of Moorestown, Geo. Griffin, of Green Valley, Divide Second Place Honors

By STAN BAUMGARTNER

Trailing the leader by five strokes with but eighteen holes to go, knowing that the slightest slip would cense him from the picture Big Ed Dudley, lion-hearted lonkman of Concord, swept down the final stretch in the Philadelphia open golf championship at the Merion Cricket Club yesterday like a hate thoroughbred to lead the entire field by one stroke. His total for the 72 holes was 295, made up of four rounds of 75, 74, 75, 75, remarkable for their consistency. Victory netted him $350 in prize money.

It was the second time this season that the handsome club swinger has had his hands in the pot of gold in this district.

A tame "money" player, blessed with iron nerves and a devil-may-care attitude, Dudley first impressed himself on the golf matrix of the district when he won the Pennsylvania open over the Whitemarsh Country Club course.

True, he had been a member of this Ryder cup team, and on such had achieved national recognition. But he was merely a name until he fought off the gallant Tommy Armour in the memorable battle at Whitemarsh.

Then He Was Frost-Runner

Then he was the frost-runner (as Bobby Jones says the most difficult thing in golf), a leader by four strokes on the final round battling to stave off the inspired rush of an amazed Scotchman.

Yesterday he was the under dog, battling desperately to close the gap between he and was George Smith, of Moorestown. He was as great in this situation as he was in the other—and he triumphed in both.

Runner-up honors, second place in the prize money was divided between George Smith, of Moorestown, and George Griffin, of Green Valley, both having grand totals of 296.

While the failure to etch themselves into first place was a bitter disappointment to both Smith and Griffin, Smith was the harder hit.

At the end of the third 18 it looked as if victory and its shower of gold would fall on the shoulders of Smith. By scoring a splendid 72, he had a total of 217, three strokes in front of Clarence Ehrenman, leader after Monday's play and five strokes in front of Dudley.

Blew His Chance

No wonder then that this 125 pounds of Jersey dynamite, small enough to put in your vest pocket but large enough to gall circles in Berry mountains should have been ready to runnt his "series" money.

Smith was "counting his chickens before they were hatched," however. Disaster hit him at the outset. After dropping one stroke to par on the first hole he collapsed on the short third a par three, and took six. Landing in the sandpit on his tee shot, the Jerseyite knocked his ball harkward in his second and over the green and into another pocket on his next, finally winding up with a six.

Despite this he was out in 41 in and Dudley sent in 39 had gained three strokes. Still wavering on the incoming nine the mighty atom was never far on both twelfth and thirteenth. As he stepped to the fourteenth tee Dudley had finished. One of those boys "who wouldn't want to worry him out," told Smith he needed par on the final five to win.

With this on his mind he dropped a stroke at the fourteenth and another at the sixteenth. A third 5 on the long par 3 was his only salvation—and he did just make it.

His second shot carried him above the cup. It's third for the bird was a chip. It rolled to within six inches of the cup. One more bit of energy and the ball would have dropped in for the tying counter.

Griffin like Dudley made a great fight from the rut to cut into second place money. As late as the final nine he trailed Smith by six strokes and Dudley by three.

Undaunted the Green Valley professional uncorked a brilliant 32—two under par for the final nine. And this was made in spite of a 5 on the par 3 fifth.

It was a dramatic finish to a tournament which seethed with action and good golf from the start.

Ehrenman Is Fifth

Fourth and fifth place went to Joe Carpello of Aronimink, and Clarence Ehrenman of the Philadelphia Country Club.

After an almost fatal 81 on the first round of Monday's play the Latin from Aronimink turned in three of the finest consecutive rounds of the tournament, 72, 71, 73 for a complete count of 217.

Ehrenman led the field the first day, but weakened yesterday and needed a 71 and 73 for his two rounds. Only

CLOSE-UPS OF OPEN TITLE PLAY

By STAN BAUMGARTNER

Battling George Smith, tipping the scales at 125 pounds, had big Ed Dudley, weight 202 pounds, in bad shape in the first three rounds and seemed on the verge of scoring a knockout until Dudley slipped over his lucky punch in the fourth round. After the battle Smith admitted that the handicap of 75 pounds was a little too much for his 100-rated foe.

* * *

Smith admits to 125 pounds soaking wet. "I did get up to 135 at one time," declared the Moorestown pen. "but found that the additional eight pounds prevented me from heading over with ease."

* * *

For the first time in six years, a Philadelphia district man won first prize money. The last one to cop the honors was Clarence Hackney in 1923. Since then, Kirkwood, Farrell and Armour have pocketed first money. Armour won in 1926 but after his unfortunate experience with Dudley in the Pennsylvania open decided not to try it again in this tournament.

* * *

Jack Buchanan, of the Manufacturers Country Club, was the leading amateur with a total of 326. Hugh Hunt, of Merion, was next with 321. Unfortunately, no prize is given for the best amateur score.

* * *

At three o'clock the flag in front of the clubhouse was lowered to half-mast and for one minute, all the golfers ceased their activities as a tribute to Howard W. Perrin, former National and Philadelphia golf associations president.

* * *

Steve Pfleger, major domo of the Athletics' clubhouse, forgot baseball for a day and came out to see the golfers. His only comment was "Gee, this guy Dudley can hit them as hard as Simmons."

* * *

Joseph Heaghan, of the Philadelphia Country Club, was the only caddie in the tournament. The youngster, who is number one on the Country Club caddie team, did very well on his first try at the "big time."

* * *

George Griffin is spinning his remarkable round of 32 had three birdies in a row on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes. By a remarkable coincidence, Bill Leach and Leo Shaw, playing in the same threesome, also had birds on the eleventh.

* * *

Large galleries followed several of the matches. And the spectators proved the most popular in the district this year.

LEGION BASEBALL STARTS HERE TODAY

Boys' Teams Seeking Junior Championship of World Play at Shibe Park; Maryland Champs Meet Delaware Titleholders in Opening Contest

The competition for the championship of Region No. 16 of the American Legion junior baseball tournament will get under way at Shibe Park this afternoon, when the Baltimore team, champion of Maryland, plays Wilmington, monarchs of Delaware. The contest will start at 3:30 P. M.

On Thursday a double-header will be staged with the winner of today's engagement meeting Uniontown, champion of Pennsylvania, in the first tilt and Morgantown, titleholder of West Virginia, clashing with the George Washington Post team, of Washington, D. C., in the other. The finals will be held at Shibe Park on Friday afternoon.

The junior championship of the world is the goal that the teams are striving to attain. Twelve regions are mapped out in the United States, the East and West meeting in the junior World Series at Louisville, Ky., on September 3, 4 and 5.

The finals for the East will be played in the Washington Junior League Park on August 20, 21 and 22. The Western finals are to be held at Colorado Springs on August 28, 29 and 30.

The teams and their managers met at the Central Branch of the Y. M. C. A. in this city last night, where the pairings were drawn.

The Teams and Managers

Wilmington, Delaware, National representative for this region, will act as commissioner for this series and in addition will be the judge of any disputes which may arise.

Russell Star Pitcher

All of the teams arrived here late yesterday and have been now staying at the Navy Y. M. C. A., Fifteenth street and Pine.

Thomas Suter, manager of George Washington Post team, gave newspapermen some information about his team. Outstanding individual, Everett Russell, who is a pitcher.

Russell, who is twenty years old, has pitched the team to victory every time he has been called upon. Devitt Prep, both of Washington. He was signed from Prep early this year and has hitted and fielded sixteen men.

Pitching against the players of St. John's Prep, Russell whiffed ten opponents and yielded only five hits. According to Suter, he has remarkable speed and control.

The pitching department is the strongest part of the team, for, besides young Russell, the club has a couple of other lads who are fine hoopers.

Suter has much confidence in his charges and believes they will win the championship of the series.

Youngsters Admitted Free

Boys under 17 years of age will be admitted to the games free. Fifty cents will be charged those who are older.

For the games the American League has arranged a separate Dan Barry, a member of the staff last year, while Natsinger has been sent Jack O'Sullivan, a veteran.

This is the third year in which boys' teams from over all the country are holding a series of tournaments which will bring to one of them laurels they are seeking.

The competition has become an established institution with more participants than any other single athletic event in the country. Thousands of boys' teams from every State in the Union and from every city and town in which there is a Legion post started the annual quest for the junior World's title.

The American Legion is sponsoring boy baseball as one of its major American activities. It is not interested so much in baseball as a game as it is in developing the fundamental traits of good American citizens in the boys of the country.

The Legion believes that the fundamentals of good sportsmanship are the fundamentals of good citizenship and that by teaching the boys to be good sportsmen through the playing of the national game it is building American citizenship for the future.

PHILA. TERMINAL LOST

The Phila. Terminal lost two more games yesterday when the Long Island Railroad team, representing the New York Division, defeated the home team twice by scores of 3 to 1 and 2 to 0. Hoffman, the visiting pitcher, in each game, was not stellar under the Keystone sky, but his teammates gave the visitor four of the runs.

HELEN WILLS TOPS DRAW IN NATIONALS

U. S. Champion and Betty Nuthall May Meet in Semi-final Round

By TED VOSBURGH

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Helen Wills and her 18-year-old English rival, Betty Nuthall, landed in the same half of the draw today when the names of the 64 entries for the National Women's Tennis Championship of America were drawn by the committee in charge of the tourney from a hat in the office of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

If both come through the early rounds according to schedule, the prospective battle royal between the champion and the English girl who forced her to play two hard deuced sets to win in the Wightman Cup series last week will be waged in the semi-finals a week from Friday.

Miss Wills was seeded at the top of the American list, followed in order by Helen Jacobs, also of Berkeley, Calif., Edith Cross, San Francisco, Mrs. Molla Mallory, New York, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Santa Monica, Calif., Miss Mary Greef, Kansas City, Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco, and Mrs. Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica.

Miss Nuthall headed the foreign seeded group with Mrs. Phoebe Watson, Mrs. Peggy Saunders Michell, Mrs. R. C. Covell and Mrs. Dorothy Round-Barron, her Wightman Cup teammates, next in line, and Miss Olive de Wade, of Toronto, Canadian champion, bringing up the rear.

The players expected to dispute Miss Nuthall's progress toward the semi-finals are the American veterans, Mrs. Bundy and Mrs. Mallory, both of whom are old enough to be her mother, in the same quarter with Miss Wills the Wightman Cup winner, also Miss Wade, Miss Gladman and Mrs. Michell.

In the lower half of the draw, America's second ranking star, Miss Mrs. Watson, who is the young woman who beat her in the Wightman Cup play, matched out as favorites to reach the semi-finals Mrs. Covell, Miss Greef, Mrs. Harper and Miss Jacobs, while Mrs. Watson's principal early round competition is expected to come from the San Francisco players, Miss Cross and Mrs. Harper.

None of the seeded entrants faces particularly dangerous opposition in the opening round except Miss Jacobs who plays Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., former No. 7 in the national ranking. Miss Wills meets Katharine Cummings, of Texas, and Miss Nuthall opens against Cecilia Riegel, Philadelphia.

Of the 64 players whose entries were accepted, five came from the East, 12 from the far West, four from the Mid-West and one from Miss Anderson from the South. England has six representatives, Mrs. H. A. Addin, the English player of whom little is known in this country, having entered in addition to the five Wightman Cup players. Mrs. Addin's Three Canadians are to compete—Miss Wade, Jean Burnett and Mrs. O. J. Gray, all of Toronto. Bermuda is represented by Miss Dorothy Round and by Marguerite Falkenburg, champion junior girl and holder of other South American titles, and Sweden by Miss Kerstin Sigfrid, who has been playing in this country with some success.

Martell Will Face Bat Willard Tonight

"I'll knock Mickey Martell out and wonder why I didn't do it before," was the reply of Bat Willard, of South Philadelphia, in the ferocious battle of words which preceded their scheduled 10-round bout tonight at the Central Park, West Manayunk Arena.

Martell, who is the subject of a recent lack loss to the addition for the case of Jack Dempsey, has been training for the contest in the ring. He is "sure he can hold his own" in the battle of words, which he says will be "the hottest ever heard in Philadelphia."

The "hottest of eight rounds" is also a feature of the card, which will be staged before a capacity crowd. Jack Lenhart, of France, faces Ernie Cooper, of South Philadelphia, in the main event of the eight-round preliminary.

Three attempted participations complete the card. Jimmy Wilson, of Philadelphia, and Bamford, also of Philadelphia, will open the card. Jack Gallagher, lightweight, and Jack Sullivan, of Philadelphia, will open the second preliminary. Sullivan is a recent acquisition under Mickey Rosenberg, of Rosenberg's stable, and Gallagher is a recent acquisition to the stable of Mickey Rosenberg.

CRAM HAD BILL TILDEN GOING, THEN FIZZLES

Vanderbilt Net Star Amazes Spectators at Rye by Aggressive Play; But With Victory Seemingly Within Grasp He Fades Before Foe's Comeback

(By Universal Service)

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The beaux of psychology gripped Donald Cram, of the University of Vanderbilt, and battered his nerves and deprived him of a probable victory over William T. Tilden, 2d, today.

Before a crowd aghast at the amazing Cram, who, benefiting by the unchalalenged tactics of Tilden, was leading 6-3, 2-0, and 30-30 serve in a walkover, Tilden, a master of the opening round, lost a game to tennis masters, in the region that fire, that sureness of stroke, so essential to success.

Then, Cram, following a 5-1 final set advantage, dropped a game and forced his way to a tense, two-points of triumph. Body tensed, determined as well as every fiber in concentration in sight, Cram sent his next serve crashing over at the Rye Beach, only when the umpire, Samuel Hardy, called a foot fault on the second serve.

Later on, one of the foremost exponents of the fundamentals of tennis seemed perfectly legitimate, but he apparently did not feel so.

Decision Gives Bill Break

That decision gave Tilden the "odd." Cram, completely robbing him of the opening round victory, also stole the power that had characterized the Vanderbilt star's game immediately. His dismal outlook faded as he regained his composure and the Philadelphia Cram crumbled to a wreck, but not so much as Tilden, 2d, had.

Besides Tilden, the first ranking American, Frank Hunter, and Johnston were in the lot, and his particular troubles, Johnston, of Berkeley, Calif., of Portland, Oregon, former national intercollegiate title holder, and Hunter, of Portland, Oregon, former national intercollegiate title holder, and Hunter, of Portland, Oregon, former national intercollegiate title holder, and Hunter,
