

THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER, WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 31, 1905

BUTTLING LANDS PARKWAY EVENT

J. L. McGinnis' Entry at 30 to 1 Roms Home With Feature at Gravesend

Jacobite, the 11 to 1 Favorite,
Wins Hudson Stakes in Hair
raising Finish

NEW YORK, May 31.—(By wire.)—A record of horse racing was made at Gravesend today when Jacobite, the 11 to 1 favorite, won the Hudson Stakes in a hair-raising finish. The race was run over a mile and a half on the new track, and was one of the most exciting of the season. Jacobite, a bay colt, was owned by J. L. McGinnis and was trained by George W. Lloyd. He was ridden by jockey John G. Heitz. The race was won by a narrow margin, with Jacobite finishing ahead of the second place horse, a colt named "The Duke." The race was a great success for McGinnis, who had been hoping for a big win for some time. The crowd was estimated to be one of the largest ever seen at Gravesend.

GRAVESEND SELECTIONS

Best Bet—Hudson Stakes, Jacobite.
Second Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Third Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Fourth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Fifth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Sixth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Seventh Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Eighth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Ninth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.
Tenth Best—Hudson Stakes, The Duke.

TRIALS AT CEDAR PARK

The trials at Cedar Park today were a great success. The horses were in excellent condition and the races were well attended. The crowd was estimated to be one of the largest ever seen at Cedar Park. The races were won by the following horses: The Duke, Jacobite, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke.

LOCAL HORSEFLESH NOTES

At the local horseflesh notes, it was found that the horses were in excellent condition and the races were well attended. The crowd was estimated to be one of the largest ever seen at the local horseflesh notes. The races were won by the following horses: The Duke, Jacobite, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke, The Duke.

MEMORIAL DAY SPORTS

MISS GRISCOM BEATEN

However, Other American Soldiers
Win in the English Trenches

HERRMANN ON UMPIRES

Reds' President Expresses Himself
Publicly on Interesting Questions

STOP AUTO RECORD RACE

Vanah Rejected the Record When
Track Remains Too Slippery

GREAT CROWD AT HIBERNIANS' GAMES

Rain Gets in Its Work for a Time, But Does Not Spoil
the Sports

TWO HEATS AT POINT BREEZE

Main Spoiled Good Sport for Large Crowd of Spectators

FRED COLEMAN HIGH GUN IN BIG SHOOT

An Amateur Gunner Won the Prize
in the Big Shoot at Point Breeze

M'FARLAND WINS MEMORIAL TROPHY

Huntingdon Valley Golfer,
Aside From Capturing Hand-
some Prize, Makes Record

HAVERFORD ELEVEN DEFEATS CORNELL

The Haverford Eleven won the Cornell Cup in a game played at Haverford, Pa.

MILES BEATS SANDS

English Tennis Player Easily Defeats American in Final Match

LANCASTER GOLF CLUB BEATEN

The Lancaster Golf Club was beaten by the Haverford Eleven in a game played at Haverford, Pa.

YESTERDAY'S CRICKET SCORES

At the cricket matches played yesterday, the following scores were made:

OTHER SPORTS ON PAGES 10 AND 11

FLEET STEPPERS ON MANY TRACKS

North Penn Trotting Association
Holds Great Meeting
at Belmont

Kensington Driving Club Succeeds
in Running Off Three Heats Before the Downpour Arrived

RAIN AT HOLMESBURG

The Kensington Driving Club eventually won three heats in the race at Holmesburg.

PISTON'S FIRST MATCHES RACES

The Kensington Driving Club won the first matches in the Piston races at Holmesburg.

3 DAYS MORE of the FINAL Sale of The CENTURY Dictionary & Cyclopedia & Atlas

No more sets can be obtained after June 3

"The Century," with its 10 massive volumes, containing nearly 10,000 pages, 500,000 encyclopedic definitions, 300,000 quotations, 200,000 super-erogations and 310 maps in five to ten colors, is a complete library in itself. Its fortunate owner possesses a magnificent library of reference—twenty-six standard books in one, as follows:

1. A Complete Defining Dictionary. "The work is as complete as skill and ability can make it."—William F. Fetter, LL.D., President University of Chicago. "The most remarkable work of its kind."—Lionel H. Capen, President Tufts College.
2. A Thesaurus of Synonyms and Antonyms. "The greatest of its kind."—Francis Bacon, Secretary of the Admiralty. "Our predecessors had no synonymy as we have it."—University Press, Cambridge.
3. A Standard of Spelling and Pronunciation.
4. A Complete Treasury of Quotations. "As a book of quotations, the dictionary must prove very useful to students and writers."—Cornell and Chronicle, Ithaca, N. Y.
5. A Cyclopedia of Historical Information. "The most useful single work of reference in English, or any other language with which I am acquainted."—John P. Fisher, LL.D., Author of "The American Encyclopedia." "The Encyclopedia of America." "The work of exceptional value and utility."—Hon. James Bryce, R. P. Author of "The American Commonwealth."
6. A Thesaurus of Technical and Mechanical Terms, Measures, Units, Weights, Measures, etc. "A valuable work of many reference to commercial men and manufacturers. They find it of great use in determining their points not mentioned in other cyclopedias of recent date."—E. & W. Wood, Maryland Steel Co.
7. A Cyclopedia of Commerce, Finance, Banking, Insurance, etc. "A complete and full of accurate information."—Hon. James Bryce, R. P. Author of "The American Commonwealth."
8. A Cyclopedia of Legal Terms. "Nothing in our language will so fully satisfy the demands for information, accuracy, full and complete."—Hon. David J. Brewer, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. "Contains the very latest and best definitions as laid down by our best legal writers and by the decisions of the courts as well."
9. A Knowledge of Scientific Terms, giving the result of the very latest research and thought in every department of science, as botany, zoology, biology, meteorology, physics, etc. "Unparalleled both in the working and teaching."—Hon. S. P. Parker, Professor of Zoology and Geology at Brown University. "Has defined, illustrated, pronounced and given the etymology of all technical terms in use in every science."—William F. Fetter, LL.D., President University of Chicago.
10. A Thesaurus of Theological Terms. "It can hardly speak too strongly in praise of 'The Century'."—Rev. Augustus D. Foster, Trinity Church, New York City. "Regarded as the best authority and the most valuable reference book in my library."—Rev. Washington Gladden.
11. A Cyclopedia of Medicine, Surgery, Physics, Anatomy, etc. "It is of such value to physicians that any of the medical libraries should possess it."—Allen M. Hamilton, M.D., Attending Physician New York Hospital for Nervous Diseases. "I know of no work that can be compared with it."—Henry W. Wood, M.D., LL.D., Senior Dean and Professor of Medicine, Rush Medical College.
12. A Glossary of Military and Naval Terms. "A wonderful treasury of reliable and important information."—Nelson A. Miles, ex-Commander-in-Chief U. S. Army. "Has been in use in the War Department Library for a number of years, and has proved of great value."—Hon. James Bryce, R. P. Author of "The American Commonwealth."
13. A Cyclopedia of Engineering. "Invaluable as a general reference work, and especially so for all matters pertaining to civil engineering."—George F. Swain, Professor of Civil Engineering, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
14. A Complete Glossary of Electrical Terms. "I have never yet had occasion to look for a word that I did not find in the information I was in search of, and a great deal more."
15. A Museum of Art and Archaeology, Bibliography, Sculpture, Ceramics, Engraving, Wood, Sculpture, Engraving, Heraldry, Arms and Armor, Sculpture, etc.
16. A Glossary of Architecture. "Contains a full glossary of architectural terms, and includes every architectural scientific term known to the architect, and the professional architect and the architect."—Hon. James Bryce, R. P. Author of "The American Commonwealth."
17. An Astronomical Library with definitions and illustrations of constellations. "A perfect treasure house of condensed and accurate information."—C. A. Young, Professor of Astronomy at Princeton College.
18. A Cyclopedia of Music. "I have been able to find in it what I scarcely anticipated, a full and concise explanation of musical terms, I note also biographies of musical composers, including composers, virtuosi, artists, conductors and musicians, and the pronunciation of each name."—Hon. James Bryce, R. P. Author of "The American Commonwealth."
19. A Treasury of Quotations, familiar and unfamiliar. "I enjoy particularly the citations that illustrate the use of words."—Daniel C. Gilman, ex-President Johns Hopkins University.
20. A Glossary of Abbreviations (arranged in regular alphabetical order).
21. A Pictorial Cyclopedia of Common Things, with eight thousand illustrations of birds, plants, places, buildings, tools, machines, instruments, etc., arranged in alphabetical order. "The illustrations surpass anything ever attempted in a similar publication."—The Nation.
22. A Biographical Library. "A complete biographical dictionary."—Literary World, London.
23. A Catalogue of Literature. "An extraordinary volume reference catalogue of names of places and events, names in travel, places, labels, names and words in alphabetical order of letters and words, and in fact, names referring to every subject and every event."—Literary World, London.
24. A Catalogue of Literature. "I know of no atlas which equals it in the fulness and accuracy of its maps."—R. E. Peary, Commander United States Navy.
25. An International Glossary. "The perfectly systematized index and reference volume, making saving time when consulting maps."—Commander Henry H. Harrell, United States Navy. "A complete glossary for all times and all nations."—Literary World, London.

Special Arrangements have been made at "The Century" counter for fully explaining this great work during the last days of the sale. COME TO THE STORE if possible and see the different bindings and special bookcases. To those who are unable to visit the store we have arranged to send special representatives with full information about the work and the half-price plan. To secure such a call return the coupon in the right corner. Above all, remember that these few days mark the

END OF THE HALF PRICE
JOHN WANAMAKER

JOHN WANAMAKER, Philadelphia
Please send me at once to the CENTURY DICT.
I will return the coupon to the CENTURY DICT.
I will return the coupon to the CENTURY DICT.
I will return the coupon to the CENTURY DICT.
I will return the coupon to the CENTURY DICT.