MACKMEN PULL UP A LITTLE CLOSER TO LEADER BY VICTORY AND RAIN

ATHLETICS BEAT YANKS IN FINAL

Run Up Eleven Runs, While Detroit Is Compelled to Be Idle by Rain

Today Boston Will Be Here for a Double-Header, in Which There Are Great Possibilities

When a team gets going right, everything seems to leave its way. That was the case yesterday with the Athletics, who capped out New York's getaway by the unusual margin of eight runs. At the end of the third it looked as though the Highlanders were destined for trouble, when a little bad judgment, coupled with a bad throw and three hits, enabled the Highlanders to tie up the score. But right here Morgan rightened up, and the team behind him settled down in a workmanlike manner, fielding flawlessly and using their opportunity. That combination, in itself was enough to give the Athletics the victory, but the Highlanders persisted in greasing the way for them by making senseless and costly muffs and wild throws, rendering the acceptance of the home a rather easy performance. The Athletics themselves had one bad inning, poor judgment and poor execution costing the visitors two more runs than they were entitled to.

* * *

For once things broke right for Morgan. He not only had the other fellows down, but the Athletics broke the superstition that they cannot hit behind him, and all of them hit with a vengeance, connecting for eleven hits, which looms up as big as they did all this morning, the Highlanders got but three hits. Hughes was unfortunate in giving his passes and having the men behind him make their errors in the innings in which the Athletics did the bulk of their scoring, but he was also touched for a few hits even for extra bases, the victory was a rather soft one. The hitting of Collins and Livingstone was the distinguishing feature of the afternoon.

* * *

With two gone in the first inning Eddie Collins lifted a long fly over Dave Fultz, who had just crashed Engle against the fence after a long chase to the terrace, and before the ball could be retrieved, although perfectly handled by both Engle and Austin, Collins got over second. Murphy then lifted a fly to Austin, and Morgan dodged to right and came in on Baker's single over Hughes's right shoulder. Oldring scored on Livingstone's out—Austin to Fultz—but in the third they tied it up with a rush. Dauss(ett) grounded to Davis, after which Keeley, who had replaced Hughes, was hit by a pitched ball by Mr. who made a fouled throw to the third to get Keeler. Engle hit to Davis, who made a wild heave to second to get the Chase. Dave forced Engle—Collins to Barry. Knight followed with a short fly to left, which Murphy misjudged nor Barry could reach, and Chase and Mr. scored. Austin then hit to Baker, and Barry, but Knight, trying to score, was nailed at the plate.

* * *

Right there the Highlanders dropped out of it, failing to get a man to first in the next two innings, while the Athletics, who could not help scoring—either through their own initiative or the errors of the New Yorkers, After Baker had been retired in the fourth, Davis was safe on a muff by Willie Keeler, said to be the first misplay charged to the latter in the whole season, which was a record of ninety-six errors, for Danny Murphy was passed. Oldring cleared Jiffed Austin at first, and Davis, by a terrible like drive, scoring Davis. Murphy stole third, and kept right on to the home plate when Austin made another wild throw to the plate.

* * *

Collins tripled in the fifth and scored on Baker's fly to Keeler. Davis walked in the eighth, and was scored on Murphy's single to right, scoring on Oldring's fly to left field. Livingstone's single to right, scoring Murphy, and Barry's single to left, scoring Livingstone. Morgan filed to Dahlgren and Gessler ended in pawnery. Dahlgren got a hit to Austin, and started for second; on the throw Barry dropped the ball, and Dahlgren reached it. The score follows:

PASSED BALLS

The Athletics will have their work cut out for them when they meet the Highlanders on Oct. 1, their last with only one game with the Bostons, who are still very much in the race for the pennant. The Athletics will have to clinch the championship or look out for the possibilities of today's events are exceptionally good.

Clarence and Engle will probably be the Manager Mack's selection for the box this afternoon, with Coombs ready on two days' rest should Nesbit prove wild.

The Athletics will close the local Eagle-Collins season with a double-header. It is evident that if this young man keeps on pitching he will soon be in the front rank.

Fielty Lapoint has had his troubles since he has been with the Athletics, but he has shown that he has the goods, and economically his acquisition of the team was profitable from a financial standpoint, although we never would have suspected it from the way he was treated by some combinations.

George Wiltse, the great shutout of other days, is now with the Boston Americans, and he looks a star when he is compared with the aggregation of ball tossers were in their employ. Wiltse was a member of the Giants' championship team of 1905, and was the pitcher who spoiled Connie Mack's world's championship record by three successive victories. He is recognized by Manager Jennings, who recently secured him from the Giants, as the best left-handed pitcher in the league, and he has gone through without a single defeat.

Wiltse is a fine fielder, a good hitter, resourceful, and a man who can be depended on in a pinch. Jennings has cheered with considerable pride and satisfaction over his acquisition.

GRAY BLEW UP IN TENTH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Gray weakened in the tenth to-day and Boston won, scoring 3 to 1. The Washington Club today traded Pitcher Charles Smith to Boston for Outfielder Hooper.

MOORE BLANKS THE BEANEATERS

Earl Has Splendid Command and His Team-mates Put Up Perfect Fielding Game

Lew Richie Twirls Well, But Ragged Support and Errors Cause His Defeat

Special to The Inquirer.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—With Earl Moore in the box for the Phillies the locals had no trouble in winning the first game by the score, 3-0. He had splendid command and the way he kicked up—well, deserved the shutout for the locals and stitched a very good game, ragged support being largely responsible for most of the scoring of the visitors, Abraham being unable to locate second and Coffey's throwing being weird. Moore's work was the...

Philadelphia maintained the fast work of the Moore-Moore combination in the after-part of the second game, Boston had men on second and third in the first inning, but Lew Richie could not get a man to second after that until the seventh, when Hoblitzell walked and Lewis singled to center, both men scoring. Hoblitzell and Beck led their sides with the stick, and each made the only drive for extra bases in the game, Eddie Grant's safe hunt and Bates' stinging double in the eighth center started the scoring in the first. Titus batted a fly to Richie on which Bates was caught napping and Delmarter walked and stole second, taking third on Abraham's out. Titus scored on Coffey's fly to Lewis, and Bates made another run when second, where he was left.

The locals made a good bid for a run, but collected but one hit, Titus singling in the first. Becker followed suit, Bates just missing a three-bagger, Titus scoring on Richie's out, which Bates was caught napping at the plate by Chief Meyers at the rubber. Beck stole second, but he was left, Lewis to Bates.
