Johnny Farrell Wins Philadelphia Open Golf Championship With Total of 292

OVERTAKES HACKNEY IN STIRRING FINISH

Atlantic City Professional Draws Into Second Place Two Strokes Behind Victor; Intense Heat Causes Many Withdrawals

By PERRY LEWIS

JOHNNY FARRELL, the handsome young Irishman who teaches the young golf idea to shoot at the Quaker Ridge Club of the Metropolitan district, gets the championship and the change. For yesterday, on the course of the Cedarbrook C. C., Johnny completed the business of winning the Philadelphia Open Championship. His total for the 72 holes was 292.

To win the crown and the cash, the New Yorker had to come from behind and nip Clarence Hackney, of Atlantic City, who led the field at the end of the first 36 holes played Monday. In the first round of 18 yesterday, the victor not only picked up the resort linksman by wiping out the latter 2 stroke margin, but he also forged ahead by a stroke, for Farrell spun a 72 as Hackney required a 75.

Then, over the final 18 hole stretch, the ultimate winner gained still another stroke on his nearest rival by carding a 74 as Hackney struggled to better his 75 of the morning and filled. The latter, of course, lugged off second money with his total of 294.

Leo Diegel, of Glen Oakes, came in third with 297, three strokes behind Hackney. There were six money prizes altogether and extra trophies for any amateur who snatches one of the first six places.

Good Fortune Aplenty

Bill Klein, of Garden City and former champion of Long Island, collected fourth money with 298, while the best amateur was amateur, the same being J. Wood Platt, the Whitemarsh crack who has thrice won the amateur championship of Philadelphia. Platt had an even 300, and it is fortunate for Joe Brennan, of Asbestos, as well as Bill Leach, of Overbrook, that J. Wood is an amateur. For, because he is a simon pure, the forlorn divots down fifth instead of sixth money, while Leach gets sixth and that money, except instead of merely credit for finishing seventh. Brennan had 303 and Leach 304.

So much for the mere statistics, which do not record the half of it. They do not tell of the whirlpool of it all, nor of the spots where the action fairly bristled with the sensational and the sensational—such as Kline's amazing 6 on the short seventh.

It all happened at the ninth hole in the afternoon, a hole which probably will never be forgotten by the Garden City professional, who was up there close to the leaders making a fight for the title when he teed up at the ninth.

Match This One

Perhaps the severe strain of the stern competition was telling on Kline, and top the severe sun had something to with it. In any event once here looked for a stiff contest and the ball came to rest in a clump of trees, with only a Cedarbrook clubhouse blocking the way to the green.

There was one thing to do—and that was to play a high one over the building, the next direct cuff cert of a shot. And Kline banged away at it, hit the building, bended against a coping to the second-story porch, there it rattled around the chairs for awhile before coming to rest.

If there is a game known as porch golf, Kline should climb up and become a world's champion, for he went up and banged a boy right inside, cleared away some of the porch furniture and then, with a mashie, he dropped the ball within three feet of the flag—a 175-yard shot off the second-story porch. He was down in four for his 9 par five; he was still up with the leaders—and if you can beat that we crave the details.

Farrell's Great Finish

And Kline was not the only linksman who walked with Lady Luck over the Cedarbrook course yesterday. Of course, Johnny Farrell did, for without the compass of that desirable lady no golfer can win a modern championship. But Farrell earned his triumph—he earned it on the seventy-second hole alone, where he saved himself with a super shot.

Here Johnny missed his drive and was stymied by a tree. Realizing Hackney was right at his heels, he felt that he must play to the green, for he could not be a look, otherwise he would hit the tree, bound back and all was lost. There was a very fancy shot—one that only the gamest of game golfers would attempt.

Farrell, not game, attempted it—HIT MADE IT. His ball curved gracefully around the obstruction to cut the top rid nie until it nestled on the green. Two putts, a perfect four, and the title was his. The winning card follows:

MORNING ROUND

Out ..... 445 544 434—38
In ..... 343 544 544—37—75

AFTERNOON ROUND

Out ..... 444 435 534—37
In ..... 445 444 444—37—74—292

Hackney can blame his defeat on what happened on the tricky fifteenth, a water hole, and the eighteenth. On Monday he lost four strokes to par on these two holes. Yesterday he wavered even before he reached the fifteenth, for on his second trip around he used up three putts on the fourteenth, and needed a five.

Then on the fifteenth he hit his second into the water, and again was one over orthodox figures. In short, Hackney dropped five strokes to par on the fifteenth and eighteenth in the two days of play, and here the title was the stroke, and it requires no age to figure out how he lost it. Hackney's cards follow:

MORNING ROUND

Out ..... 434 444 545—37
In ..... 343 444 545—37—74

AFTERNOON ROUND

Out ..... 445 445 444—38—75—294

The championship was played through the blinding heat wave and therefore there is a matter of endurance as well as skill. The only way that Johnny Farrell, a fourth money man ago, was able to go the distance yesterday was to take a boy trail to the rear, a bucket of ice and water, into which he would duck his head between the holes.

Because of the heat there were many high scores shown, a total of 75 that started, completing the 4 rounds.
