Earl Blaik — Tough Schedule Makes Hayes' Record Glitter

By COL. EARL H. BLAIK
Former Army Coach

SCOOP HUDGINS, the tireless publicity director for the Southeastern Conference, has come up with his 1965 edition of the Top-Twenty, the biggest winners among active major college coaches. He started the project in 1958 at which time the group there and is in fourth. This is a was topped by Bud Wilkinson, Bobby Dodd, Woody Hayes and myself.

Since then there has been a wholesale shuffling of places of Johnny Vaught, of Old Miss, is on top with a percentage of .778 for the his 18 years. Darrell Royal, has become even tougher, Texas, is second with .748 in Alabama, is third with .736 for a word for coaches in the Woody Hayes, at Ohio State, and elsewhere, who in variably play tougher schedules than most. Murray Warmath, at Minnesota, is one. Murray doesn't appear in the Top Ten but he is as fine a coach as any. The same goes for Jack Green, whose Vanderbilt teams few soft spots each year.

* * *

THE top 10 lines up with Vaught, Royal, Bryant, Hayes, Pie Vann, of Southern Mississippi; Bob Blackman, of Dartmouth; Dodd; Shug Jordan, of Auburn; Pen Schwartzwalder, of Syracuse, and Bill Murray, of Duke.

In the second 10 are Warren Woodson, of New Mexico State, who has won the most games (217) and Ara Parseghian, who was so successful in his first year with Notre Dame. Ara had won 75 games at Miami and Northwestern before taking over the portfolio under the Golden Dome.

With Dr. Eddie Anderson's retirement, Jess Neely, of Rice, becomes the senior member in terms of coaching seasons, 38. Jess's record shows 203 victories and 138 losses and 20 ties for 16th. He and Woodson are the only major coaches showing 200 victories.

At least four coaches will hit the 100-victory plateau this year barring some cataclysmic upset. They are, together with their victories, Jordan at Auburn, (301); Frank Camp, at Louisville (96); Len Casanova, at Oregon (97); and Buff Donelli, at Columbia (89).

All 20 coaches are certainly worthy of universal acclaim, but I think an extra burst of applause should be directed toward Woody Hayes for his ability to make this group from the Big Ten. And don't forget Sec- Hudgins, who thought up the idea.

STANFORD plays an unusual schedule this year. The Indians will meet all three service academies. As far as I can recall, this is the first time any team has attempted this interesting triangle. Since the Air Force has been operative only a few years, there haven't been many opportunities for this kind of arrangement.

Navy and the Air Force Academy follow on successive Saturdays on the Stanford list, Army's West Coast trip, Oct. 23, will be to Palo Alto.

Whatever Stanford's ultimate football fortunes this year, two things are certain. Their players and fans will see a lot of marching and hear a good deal of martial music.

Giants Beat Dodgers, 3-1, For National League Lead

48,576 See Hart Bat In Three Runs

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (AP)—Jim Hart drove in three runs and Bob Shaw and Manasori Murakami combined for a six hitter, as the San Francisco Giants grabbed the National League lead for the first time this season by defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night, 3-1.

The Giants, completing a sweep of the two-game series, vaulted past the Dodgers by two percentage points.

NO INCIDENTS

The game was the last between the teams—unless there is a playoff—and was played without any incidents resulting from the Juan Marichal-John Roseboro bat-swinging incident Aug. 22.

Hart knocked in a run with a first-inning single and broke a 1-1 tie with a fifth inning, two-run homer, helping Shaw gain his 13th victory against eight defeats.

Shaw allowed only five hits before Murakami relieved him with two out in the eighth inning and Maury Wills on first with a single. Murakami stopped the Dodgers the rest of the way.

HART ON SPREE

Jesus Alou and Willie Mays singled in the first inning before Hart made it 1-0 by legging out a topped roller for a single.

Mays was aboard with a walk in the fifth, when Hart hit a 415-foot homer into the center field pavilion—his 21st of the year. Hart now has hit seven homers and knocked in 20 runs in his last 33 games.

SHAW ESCAPES

The Dodgers had created a 1-1 tie in the third inning, when Wes Parker and John Roseboro doubled.

But Shaw didn't permit another runner to advance past

Eagles' Kuharich Coy, Won't Name Players In Football Grab-Bag

Special to The Inquirer

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 7. — Shhhh! Don't tell anyone Two members of the Eagles, perhaps more, were placed on waivers Tuesday. But no one is supposed to know who they are for at least 24 hours.

Coach Joe Kuharich is keeping it all a big secret from his squad and the press because he thinks one of the NFL teams might want to claim one of the players. Should this happen, he plans to withdraw waivers on that particular player and attempt to make a trade with the club.

This is standard operating procedure throughout the league but in the case of the Eagles, waivers are handled with more secrecy than in most instances.

Kuharich doesn't want a leak for fear of worrying some of his players unduly, but his efforts to keep his waiver moves secret are reportedly more unsettling for the entire squad than if they knew exactly which players were on the spot.

Since the NFL clubs had to

Ralston, Osuna Gain 4th Round At Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP). — Rafael Osuna, of Mexico, 1963 winner and sixth-seeded, had to call upon all of his wizardry Tuesday for a 7-9, 8-6, 6-2, 12-10 victory over Herb FitzGibbon, of Garden City, N. Y., in the National tennis championships.

The little Latin was hardest pressed of favored players, including third - seeded Dennis Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., eighth-seeded Cliff Drysdale, of South Africa, and Charlie Pasarell, of Puerto Rico.

Osuna appeared in sure trouble when he dropped the first set to the sharp-hitting 22-year-old Princeton graduate and had two set points against him in the fourth.

OSUNA TAKES LEAD

Trailing 3-5 in the fourth, Osuna pulled a break with two beautiful passing shots and went into the lead 8-7 with another break in the 15th, but FitzGibbon rebroke immediately to send the match into semi-darkness.

The end came for FitzGibbon when he lost his service in the 23rd game, double-faulting, missing a smash and making two errors, and it was almost routine when Osuna won the 22d game.

RALSTON TRIUMPHS

The match was not the day's longest, however. Keith Carpenter, of Canada, and John Powless, of Madison, Wis., played more than 3½ hours before Carpenter won the 80-game match, 3-6, 6-4, 13-17, 6-3, 11-9.

Ralston, seeking to atone for

Keane Reported Rehired for '66

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Johnny Keane, first-year manager of the slump-ridden New York Yankees, will be signed to a one-year contract to manage the team again in 1966, The Associated Press learned Tuesday night.

A source close to Keane said the 53-year-old pilot already has agreed to terms with the Yankees and only the formal signing remains.

The Yankees have called a news conference for 2 P.M. (EST) Wednesday. There has been widespread speculation that Keane would be fired.

For $1 Million — A's Insure Campy Act

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7 (UPI).

CHARLES O. FINLEY, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, announced Tuesday that A's infielder Bert Campaneris will be insured for $1 million Thursday night when he is scheduled to become the first player in modern history to play all nine positions in a single game.

Finley, also an inventive tycoon, said, "The policy will start the minute the game gets underway and is void as soon as the last out is made.

"You know, baseball today is not like the old days. Everyone is a perfectionist today and to ask a youngster like this to come in and play every position is a very hazardous undertaking."

Pisano Wins by Stroke In Phila. Open Playoff

Jerry Pisano, pro at the Radnor Valley Country Club, took the lead with a par four on the first hole and never trailed, winning the Philadelphia Open golf championship Tuesday at Tavistock Country Club.

The 27-year-old Seton Hall law school graduate defeated Ted Wilkerson of Monmouth, 73 to 76, in the playoff. They had tied for the crown a month ago on the same course.

Pisano's card showed birdies on the par four third, with a 25-foot putt, on the par three eighth with a three-footer, and the long 11th, where his six

Pro Football — Seals Traded; Waivers Asked On Huarte, Lane

From Our Wire Services

George Seals, AWOL Washington Redskins guard, was traded; John Huarte, $200,000 rookie New York Jets quarterback, and Dick (Night Train) Lane, Detroit line veteran defensive back, were placed on waivers in highlights of action on the pro football front Tuesday.

Seals, who left the Redskins last week after a fight with defensive tackle Joe Rutgens and a verbal tiff with line coach Chuck Cherundulo, was sent to the Chicago Bears in exchange for veteran guard Ted Karras.

BREEDLOVE TRADED

Seals has been staying with relatives in a suburb of Baltimore since his walkout.

Earlier the Redskins traded linebacker Rod Breedlove to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a future draft choice.

Huarte, former Notre Dame star who won both the Heisman and Maxwell awards last year, could become the highest paid "taxi squad" member in pro football as a result of being placed on the American Football League list.

EAGLES TURNED DOWN

Obviously the Jets wish to place him on their reserve squad and are confident that none of their rivals will be willing to assume Huarte's hefty salary. If he should be claimed for $100 within the next 24 hours the Jets could still withdraw Huarte's name and find room for him on their regular squad. They waived four other players Tuesday and thus got one under the 38-player limit.

Huarte, who signed with the Jets after turning down a bid from the Eagles, missed the first three weeks of practice

Inability to Bunt Hurts Phils' Chance at Flag

By ALLEN LEWIS
Of The Inquirer Staff

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.—Among the myriad problems which have plagued the Phillies this disappointing season is their inability to execute one of baseball's basic plays—the bunt. Only last year, when they led the National League for most of the season before their late - September collapse, the Phillies were one of the more proficient bunting teams. As in many other phases of play, they have done a complete about-face this year.

"Last year," said manager Gene Mauch as the Phillies rested Tuesday before beginning a two-game series with the Milwaukee Braves Wednesday night, "we'd bunt in the first inning and we'd bunt in the third, and in the late innings we had everybody worrying about the squeeze play.

"It wasn't so much about if we'd use the squeeze that bothered the other clubs, it was when. We usually got that run in from third some way.

"This year the other clubs don't have to worry about the squeeze. Even the ones (players) that were the best at it—Bobby Wine and Ruben Amaro —haven't been able to make the play this year."

EMPHASIZED BUNT

It isn't only the squeeze bunt that has been bothering the Phillies; it's also the simple sacrifice bunt, the maneuver all clubs use constantly to advance a runner to scoring position.

In 1960, when Mauch took over as manager on the first weekend of the season, he often mentioned that bunting would be heavily emphasized the following year when he conducted spring training with the Phillies for the first time.

Bunting was practiced in 1961 and the Phillies became one of the better teams in the league in its execution, probably reaching their peak last season.

Asked if he would again emphasize bunting practice next spring in Clearwater, Fla., Mauch replied, "We won't make a big project out of it, but we'll work on it.

"We'll take one or two men at a time with one of the pitchers after the regular practice is over and work that way. You can't work on it with a full squad all at once."
